About Us

IPPNY is a New York State trade association representing companies involved in the development of generation, marketing and sale of electric power and natural gas. Utilizing cutting-edge technologies and fuel types such as cogeneration, nuclear, hydro, coal, wind, landfill gas energy from waste and biomass, IPPNY member companies produce approximately 75 percent of New York State’s electric power.

IPPNY’s objective is to advance the interests of its members: competitive generators, power marketers and other suppliers to the energy industry. IPPNY advocates state and federal policies that result in a fully competitive electric power supply marketplace. IPPNY ultimately supports the formation of a competitive marketplace where existing commitments such as independent power contracts are honored and in which all customers have a choice of electric suppliers.

Who Should Attend?

Anyone with a stake in New York’s evolving energy industry should attend the IPPNY fall conference, including:

- policy makers;
- developers and operators of electric generation projects;

- power marketers;
- government affairs specialists; and
- members of the financial, fuel, insurance, equipment, consulting and legal communities

Keynote Speaker

Hon. Cheryl LaFleur

Commissioner
Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

Commissioner Cheryl A. LaFleur was nominated by President Barack Obama to serve as a member of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and confirmed by the U.S. Senate for a term that ends in June 2014.

Commissioner LaFleur has more than 20 years of experience as a leader in the electric and natural gas industry. She retired in 2007 as executive vice president and acting CEO of National Grid USA, responsible for the delivery of electricity to 3.4 million customers in the Northeast. Her previous positions at National Grid USA and its predecessor New England Electric System included chief operating officer, president of the New England distribution companies and general counsel. Earlier in her career, she was responsible for leading award-winning conservation and demand response programs for customers.

Commissioner LaFleur is a frequent speaker on energy issues, particularly reliability and grid security, transmission planning, and enabling clean energy resources. She is a member of the NARUC Committees on Electricity and Critical Infrastructure.

Commissioner LaFleur has been a nonprofit board member and leader and has been honored by Bryant University, the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, and the YWCA of Central Massachusetts.

Commissioner LaFleur began her career as a lawyer at Ropes and Gray in Boston. She has a J.D. from Harvard Law School, where she was an editor of the Harvard Law Review, and an A.B. from Princeton University.

Commissioner LaFleur is married to William A. Kuncik, a retired attorney, and they are the parents of two grown children.

We strive to have the theme of our conference reflect the most current issues dominating the energy landscape, and this year's conference will focus in large part on state and federal public policy initiatives and the related impacts on New York's competitive electricity market. Without question, initiatives such as the New York Energy Highway, FERC Order 1000, and the STARS report, have the potential to bring dramatic change to the marketplace.

Conference attendees will learn about the impact of federal regulations on the New York market, as well as what role the NYISO believes it has in influencing public policy and how it plans to adapt to the changing landscape. Conference goers also will be provided with an update on NYSERDA's priorities, the State Energy Plan, the Energy Highway initiative, and how these policies will affect energy markets.

Our fall conference regularly attracts well over 100 energy industry executives, policy makers and members of the financial and legal communities, providing an ideal environment to meet and connect with energy colleagues.
